The life raft is a life-saving facility and equipment equipped with a ship for emergency evacuation from an emergency area or emergency evacuation from a ship in distress. It is also used as a special equipment for flood prevention and disaster prevention.

The life raft is usually stored in the FRP storage cylinder. The life raft is installed on the special truss of the ship's side. The raft can be directly thrown into the water. The life raft can be automatically inflated and formed for the people in distress. If the ship sinks too fast, It is too late to throw the raft into the water. When the ship sinks to a certain depth, the hydrostatic pressure release on the life raft will automatically unhook and release the life raft.
